FORODRIM

A Warm Welcome to the
45-year Jubilee Celebration of the Forodrim
9 – 11 Nárië in the year 46 of the Forodrim
May 26th – May 28th 2017

We will socialize, eat, drink, dance, sing, attend lectures and be merry for three days in a row.

Mae Govannen!

We bid you all a warm welcome to the 45-year Jubilee Celebration of the Forodrim. For three days you will enjoy great company, food, drink and new experiences. In this manner we celebrate all that the Forodrim means to us.

The Forodrim shall ‘fairy-story and myth guard and keep’, and this we do every week, year in, year out, through all the different activities going on in our society.

45 years ago three people gathered, whom we know under the names Dallben, Sine Nomine and Theo of Chandra. These three founded the Forodrim, and ever since then we have gathered together to study and enjoy J.R.R. Tolkien’s writings and the world he created.

Let us now remember all that has been, enjoy this wonderful celebration and daydream about all we wish to do until the next jubilee.

- 21:00-23:00 Film night at Glámscrafu: Conan the Barbarian - a classic Sword-against-Sorcery movie. It is usually featured in BarBar as well, but there you can barely see it, much less hear it. You've drunk the drinks - now it's time to see the movie!

The HobbEdit: An Unexpected Journey; were you horrified and repulsed by the excessive computer-game-inspired action scenes and interspecies love stories in Peter Jackson's The Hobbit trilogy? If so, you are not alone! Prince Pippin and his wife have created this recut version that tells the full story of the reconquest of Erebor without any unwanted distractions.
- 9:30-11:30 Great games: participate with a team consisting of 4-6 people and take part in this tournament-game at Pelennor.

Good sense and etiquette at the jubilee

General

If everyone uses their good sense, most things will run smoothly. However, here follows some assistance regarding good sense concerning etiquette in the Forodrim.

For everyone's sake, we want help to keep the cottages, patios and halls neat and in order. Clean up and throw garbage at the designated place.

Smoking indoors is prohibited. If you need to smoke then go a bit off so that you do not disturb other guests. Cigarettes must not be disposed of in nature but should be disposed of in the trash.

Do not leave valuables unattended.

In each house there is a house shirriff. If you have any questions regarding accommodation or cleaning, please contact your house shirriff.

Embassies and audiences of the Grand Council

If an invited society wishes to send an embassy to the Forodrim, the request should be communicated as soon as possible. During Saturday's ceremonies, the Grand Council will receive embassies. If you want a personal audience with the Grand Council, please contact the Lord Marshal.

Ceremonies

Be attentive to what happens in the ceremonies. When a ceremony is performed, something essential is happening. With a loudly whispered joke you disturb the moment for yourself as well as for others. If you are uncertain on how to behave during the ceremonies, watch the Earls. They should know how to comport themselves, stand or sit.

During the ceremonies photography is prohibited for all except the Lord Picturer. The Lord Picturer is Prince Arathorn, speak to him if you want pictures.

🌟 Banquets

After you have found out where you are placed, go straight there without running around. When the sitting has commenced, you should not leave your place for private reasons, except for accidents and emergencies. For instance, a spilled glass of wine is a good excuse, but not that you want to smoke.

The toastmaster and nobody else proposes common toasts, announces speeches and has care of the official items.

There are six official items at every Forodrim banquet. The three first ones – the Standing Silence (when you face west) at its start, Tolkien's toast and the Forodrim's toast – establish the frame within which the banquet is held (somewhat like the clef, key and time signatures in a score). It is good manners not to start toasting or drinking until after these three items. To quench your thirst with some water is alright, though.

At these official items, as at the three remaining ones – the toast for absent friends, the toast for the servers and the toast for the kitchen – it is not seen as good manners to add any exclamation after the toast, as is popular at other toasts.

The Standing Silence is not a toast, do not lift your glass. Like the toast for absent friends it is an occasion for silent inner thought. There is no shout of Eglerio either.

You are not supposed to start eating before those at the high table.

You should not initiate a toast with someone of higher rank, especially not someone at the high table. In contrast, it is courteous and expected to return, after a short while, a toast to someone who toasted you first. When you toast, preferably use some middle-earthly expression like Eglerio ('Praise', 'Cheers') or Almien ('For good fortune', 'Prosit'). Do not scream to contact the person you wish to toast; better refrain from the toast.

When someone gives a speech it is not fitting to eat or drink. Put down knife, fork or spoon and listen in silence to the speech.

Be courteous and attentive to all your neighbours at table, not only to the lady/gentleman seated with you.

✧ Cleaning

Make sure you throw garbage where it belongs; in the trash cans. If we all help, it will be much nicer for all of us.

Before departure, all guests must clean their bedroom and any lounge and kitchen related to this. In each sleeping house there is at least one house shirriff who you can ask if you are wondering about your accommodation and the cleaning (see under “Whom to contact”).

✧ Toilets

Toilets are available in all houses. If the toilet paper is running out, contact the house shirriff for the house in which the toilet is located (see under “Whom to contact”).
